Here are some of the best models to choose from.Troy-Bilt Storm 2410The Troy-Bilt Storm 2410 is great value for money with plenty of features—including serrated steel augers to cut through snow. It can handle depths of up to 12 inches and you don't have to stop and start again when changing the discharge direction.CC BY 2.0/CapCase/Flickr Snow Joe ION185BSnow Joe's cordless electric model is another good value option. It's also very quiet, despite throwing snow up to 20 feet. Customers appreciate its lightweight design too, weighing a manageable 32 pounds.CC BY-SA 2.0/Sally M*/Flickr Toro 38381Despite its light weight, the Toro 38381 can easily clear up to 700 pounds of snow in a minute. Power Curve technology prevents clogs inside the chute as it blows snow up to 30 feet.CC BY 2.0/EaglebrookSchool/Flickr EGO Power+ SNT2100The EGO Power+ SNT2100 is durable enough for some of the harshest winters. It also has a 12-inch serrated auger to cut through snow with ease, as well as a chute you can rotate up to 200 degrees to blow snow pretty much wherever you want.CC BY-SA 2.0/ossGuy/Flickr Honda Power HS720AAHere's a single-stage snow blower that won't disappoint. With its 4-cycle 190cc Honda OHC engine, it's capable of throwing snow up to 33 feet away. And it has a clearing width of 20 inches.CC BY 2.0/Steven Green Photography/Flickr GreenWorks Pro 2600402vWith many blizzards caused by global warming, it can feel more than a little counter-productive to contribute to the problem while clearing it. That's where this GreenWorks Pro machine comes in, built to be more environmentally friendly with an 80-volt lithium ion battery.CC BY 2.0/thetzel/Flickr Husqvarna ST224This high-power Husqvarna is more than capable enough to clear the outside areas of your property.
